A Peer Support Plus Volunteer

Is someone who freely commits time, energy and talents to benefit others, while gaining a rewarding experience of working and personal growth, with no expectation of payment except necessary out of pocket expenses.

To engage in a *Volunteer Relationship*¹ with Peer Support Plus you will be an adult, who accepts responsibility for your own behaviour.

Everyone who seeks to engage in a *Volunteer Relationship*¹ with Peer Support Plus must agree to accept personal responsibility for their behaviours, including: choices and actions; listening carefully when others relate their feelings and experiences; judging for themselves what might or might not be relevant; choosing what might or might not be appropriate to try and apply; choosing when to attempt change; and accepting the consequences for better (or for worse).

We will encourage you to take well managed risks; aim carefully to change thing for the better; attempt one small step at a time; learn from your experience and take another step.

The *Volunteer Relationship*¹ between you and Peer Support Plus is entirely voluntary and does not imply any contract between us, but it is important that Peer Support Plus is able to maintain agreed standards of service for everyone who engages with Peer Support Plus, and it is important that volunteers enjoy making their contribution.

Our Documents (identified by italics) are published on our website peersupportplus.org.

Guidelines means our *Guidelines for Behaviour*¹ which describes the behaviours Peers, Volunteers, Employees, Members and Trustees of Peer Support Plus must aspire to when relating with one another and with the charity's Supporters, Partners and Suppliers. They are intended to help everyone feel safe, productive, valued, and equal.

Managing the Relationship Peer Support Plus aims to support as many Volunteers as possible but our resources are limited and we can offer no guarantees of support.

If your Volunteer experience falls short of reasonable expectations, please use the Resolving problems procedure set out in *Volunteer Engagement Policy*¹ to improve it.

If it still cannot be resolved or if your Volunteer experience exceeds reasonable expectations, please use *Comments, Compliments and Complaints*¹ to tell us about it.

You may end your *Volunteer Relationship*¹ with Peer Support Plus at any time, as described in our *Volunteer Engagement Policy*¹.

Peer Support Plus may suspend or end the *Volunteer Relationship*¹ with you at any time if our Trustees have good cause to believe you:

- are unable to meet our agreed standards of service when performing the Role Description(s) you have committed to; or
- are failing to respect our *Guidelines for Behaviour*¹; or
- are not complying with our policies, including *Volunteer Engagement Policy*¹; or
- may be acting outside the law, or contrary to the charity's Object.
